Born in Hanford and raised in Selma by her grandparents Catherine & Cleothas Fluker, Cora Fluker is a natural born jack of all traits, being drawn to new things and ready to take on a challenge. Growing up, attending ALMS and Selma High School, she was in Marching Band, a trumpet player. She also has a passion for art/creativity and the consumption of delicious foods. She attended Reedley College, graduating Dec. 2018 with an associates in Communication Studies. While moving through her accomplishments, Cora Fluker has been on/off associated with the church for close to 10 years, glad to return. She is married to Mathew Pulley with no children aside from her fur-babies (several cats and dogs).
